

George Lambrou

George is an international arbitrator, solicitor advocate of England and Wales, and partner at Keystone Law in London.

George is regularly engaged in international arbitrations as chairman, co-arbitrator, and sole arbitrator under the ICC, LCIA, LMAA, SCC, ISTAC and ICSID rules and has experience sitting in London, Athens, Geneva, Stockholm, Moscow, Istanbul, and Washington DC. He has extensive experience in non-institutional (ad hoc) arbitration proceedings and is experienced in construction, energy, trade, mining and investment treaty disputes. He has been on over 70 international tribunals.

George has a very strong maritime background, having been a partner for many years in a leading London-based shipping law firm. He is Director of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (CIARB) Maritime Arbitration Diploma, and is Honorary Member the Institute of Chartered Shipbrokers and sits on the London Maritime Arbitrators Association User's Liaison Committee.

George accepts arbitration appointments in English (native) and Russian languages and is a Greek and US national.
